

SECOND SUNDAY IN ORDINARY TIMEJanuary 19, 2020*I did not know him

First impressions can be deceiving. Think of the people who are in your life today and compare your original perception of them with what you know now. Sometimes our initial “take” on someone is off by a little, and sometimes by a lot. A few of my closest friends began as adversaries. They admit they didn’t care much for me either at first meeting.

Dorothy Day treated the destitute and often frightful-seeming persons she encountered with great care and respect because, as she said, you never know when you are entertaining angels unawares. To see the angel in the homeless man or the Madonna in the pregnant girl takes a certain pair of eyes honed by practice, prayer, and regular exposure to the truth.

Professions of faith

John the Baptist, as we saw last week, was on a learning curve about Jesus the same as the rest of us. We think of John as having the home-court advantage because he was the intertestamental prophet of “the One who is to come.” Since he was the one “preparing the way,” surely he knew all about who and what was coming! But John was not a comic book hero endowed with superpowers. He was a faithful servant of God straining to hear the word being spoken in his times.

By all accounts, John did have an innate instinct about the presence of the holy. Didn’t he jump in his mother’s womb when Mary of Nazareth, large with child herself, came into view? That sense of the sacred would serve him well. But it was not infallible or immune to human factors like ignorance or doubt. John makes the admission in today’s gospel that, although it was his chosen profession to be the forerunner of the Coming One, “I did not know him.” He says these words twice, so that we have no confusion about his meaning. John had no cosmic pipeline making him a mere trader of inside information. Like all the prophets of Hebrew scripture, he was simply a workhorse in the spiritual life with a career professional’s dedication to looking, listening, and paying attention for the presence of God breaking into time that is happening all around us in every age.

John hesitates when Jesus presents himself for Baptism and betrays his reservations again while under arrest and beginning to wonder if Jesus is the right messiah. He has no peep stones or X-ray vision to validate his sense that “Jesus is Lord,” as Paul will later say with complete conviction. It is far easier on the long side of the Resurrection to make that claim. We stand in amazement at John the Baptist, on the short side of salvation history, making his profession of faith before Jesus had frankly done a blessed thing.

Behold the Lamb

After “giving in” to the Baptism of Jesus and making the leap of faith beyond where reason could take him, was John prepared at their next meeting to go all the way and declare Jesus the Lamb of God? That might be our impression from the lectionary, but we ourselves have leaped from Matthew to John in our gospel reading. John’s gospel does not recount the Baptism of Jesus—in fact, it is the only gospel in which Jesus is shown sponsoring the Baptism of others. So we have no sequence for these events, but we do have John’s apparent witness of the Spirit’s descent upon Jesus, which sounds like an allusion to the baptismal hour. We can hypothesize that John’s faith grew from the time he surrendered further to the divine agenda in baptizing Jesus to the day he was prepared to identify him as the Paschal Lamb.

In this sense we can consider Isaiah’s prophecy about the one called from the womb to gather Israel back as a prescient preview of John’s ministry as well as that of Jesus. Jesus is “the light to the nations.” The gospel is quick to distinguish the true light from the lamp bearer. But John’s eagerness to raise the visibility of this light by his own ministry and testimony qualifies him to be a “glorious” servant of God, too. (Taken from PREPARE THE WORD)

Father Tony

SECOND SUNDAY IN ORDINARY TIME

January 19, 2020

“now the Lord has spoken who formed me as his servant from the womb...” (Isaiah 49:5)

God has given each of us different gifts. IN order for God’s plan to work, you have to do what God is calling you to do, and I have to do what God is calling me to do. And guess what? God has given each of us a different plan! So, stop comparing yourself to others. Don’t let envy and jealousy enter your life. Be thankful for the gifts God has given you and generously share them with others.

Love Can Make The “Unwanted Child” Wanted!

"One hundred fifty years ago, President Abraham Lincoln issued the Emancipation Proclamation declaring that slaves held in Confederate territory were free men and women.

One hundred fifty years later, children in every part of the country still face the degradation and hopelessness of the practice President Lincoln sought to end....For the last 40 years and even earlier in some states, many of our judges and lawmakers have treated people like property.

They've held babies in the womb to be like chattel, possessions to be discarded or destroyed, with their mothers cast as owners.

These officials, along with the abortion industry itself, feign ignorance of the unborn child's humanity....We can't stop all evil in this fallen world, but we can fight it in our own neck of the woods with love. Love never ends. Love can save lives.

Love declares that there is no such thing as an unwanted child...With love, children are adopted, not aborted. With love, children are cherished, not abused. With love, there is less room for the oppressor because his hunting grounds are smaller....We simply need to see no child as unwanted.... And it can start with just one. One life loved can make all the difference.

After all, one life changed the entire world."

Alveda King, niece of Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. King.

--For those who mistakenly believe that abortion is a human right, that their eyes may be opened to the truth that abortion ends a human life, we pray.

APPLYING THE WORDKeep that lantern high

If Isaiah's prophecy is a prequel to John and Jesus, then Paul's ministry is the sequel—let's call it Light to the Nations II. Because it's not the end of the story but only the second episode in what seeks to become a franchise. Paul asserts to the folks at Corinth that he serves at the will of God, no less. Like the Baptist, Paul is an ordinary man "called" to do an extraordinary thing. And he gives his full attention to the task until his consciousness is replaced by Christ consciousness. Paul's learning curve was unusually steep, and he raised the light of Christ high enough for the Gentile world to see it.

It is easier for us to profess Jesus as Lord with the testimony of John, the evangelists, and Paul under our belts. We also have 20 centuries of canon and doctrine, liturgy and theology, not to mention the lived example of the saints and martyrs to light our way. Considering our home-court advantage, one might expect our lantern to be raised higher than ever. If Jesus is to be the light to the nations, our attentive and devoted participation is required.

THE INNER WORDWhat's in your heart?

◆ Isaiah says the servant people of God will become a "light to the nations." In what ways do I and other parish leadership help the people of the parish to be sources of goodness and light to the community?

◆ Saint Paul writes that those who belong to the church are "called to be holy." What do I understand holiness to mean? What are the practical steps one takes toward holiness? How do I encourage holiness in myself and others?

◆ John the Baptist call Jesus the "Lamb of God who takes away the sin of the world." How can I promote a greater spirit of self-sacrifice in myself and those with whom I am in contact?

Special Religious Development (SPRED)

SPRED is a unique program designed to guide persons living with developmental and intellectual disabilities to grow in faith and prepare for full participation in the sacramental life of the parish. SPRED began in 1960 when Fr. James McCarthy from the Archdiocese of Chicago began to work with parents, special educators and catechist volunteers. In 1967 SPRED was established as an agency of the Archdiocese. It is now part of the Department of Evangelization, Catechesis and Worship. SPRED resources 22 dioceses in 8 countries.

Each participating parish in the surrounding neighborhood focuses on an age group in the following categories:

Children ages 6-10	St. Pius X Parish in Stickney
Teenagers ages 11-16	St. Mary Parish in Riverside
Young People ages 17-21	St. Hugh Parish in Lyons
Adults 22 years and older	Mater Christi Parish in North Riverside

An Evening with Our Friends

The SPRED process, whether it is with children, adolescents, young adults or adults, is the same throughout the archdiocese, the country and world. Below is an overview of a SPRED session:

The first part of the evening is the preparation time. We work with clay, sand, paints, flowers, water, musical instruments, and photographs of nature. Through concentrated work with materials that are real, each person is led to an awareness of the bond that exists between self and others, creation and all of life.

At the end of preparation time, we finish our work and move into the gathering circle. This circle is the link between our activities and the Celebration portion of our evening.

In the Celebration Room we hear God's word and message. We hear the word of the Lord and discuss the evening's symbol as it relates to our lives. The leader catechist then delivers the message of the evening to us, which makes the focus of the session meaningful in our present lives. Then we join hands, sing, and move to music of thanksgiving.

The next stage is our Agape, or feast. In fellowship with one another we sit together, sharing conversation and a variety of foods. Finally, we gather in our last circle to sing our good-bye song or say a group prayer until our next time together.

Resources

If you know of someone who would benefit from participation in a SPRED program, or want to discover for yourself the precious gift of SPRED, please contact Patricia Garcia at (773) 552-0924 or by email at patriciagarcia10@msn.com for more information.
